CONTRATULATIONS

JESS THIRLBY TAKES OVER AS THE NEW HEAD COACH OF THE VITALITY ENGLAND ROSES

Jess was selected for the role shortly after Tracey Neville stepped down from the position following Neville's four year stint at England Netball.

Jess' solid credentials stem from her sixteen year record as an elite netballer and some fifteen years as a netball coach. Jess represented her country from 1991-2006, in 2006 she transitioned into senior coaching with the Celtic Dragons, having already coached at England U17 and U19 during 2004 and 2005. She has held the position of England U21 Head and Assistant Coach during two World Youth Cups (Cook Islands 2009 and Glasgow 2013) and has worked as both an Assistant and Technical Coach with the senior England team (2013-15).

Following 20 years of her netball career as both a player and a coach at the first full time high performance environment at Team Bath based at the University of Bath, Jess now joins England Netball with a wealth of experience in identifying and developing high performance athletes. During her time at Bath Jess consolidated her experience as an elite player to take on the role of Head Coach at the England Netball Intensive Netball Training Centre, which in turn led to her role as Director of Netball at Team Bath in 2008.
